WHAT TO EXPECT

- “World in progress II” is the second stage in an artwork produced by the Swiss artist Saype. The artist had depicted children drawing their dream world of tomorrow as part of the 75th anniversary of the UN in Geneva. Now these same children will bring their ideas to life at UNHQ - a universal farandole will be created through pencil sketches and origami folds. Saype wishes to use this new work to remind us of our duty to future generations.
- The work will be painted on the north lawn of UNHQ and will provide an enormous striking visual captured by aerial drone.
- The Secretary-General will inaugurate the artwork – a gift from the Swiss Mission – on 18th September. His remarks will celebrate the art launched within the context of Our Common Agenda.
